

Foreign Trade Association Presents:

The Commerce Control List Webinar

The Commerce Control List is found in the Export Administration Regulations (EAR) and is used to determine export control requirements for commercial, dual-use and certain defense articles. Classifying articles on the CCL is not rocket science but you may need to know some rocket science to get it right. We will explain the structure of the CCL and go through examples of how to find accurate classifications for articles and technology to be exported.

Instructor:
